

SPIRIT OF NEIGHBORLINESS FOUND
AT PEAK IN NEW LENOX FLOODABOUT THIS — AND —
ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

TWO SIDES—Most differences, if based upon honest intent, could quickly be settled if opposing sides would reverse positions—each trying to prove the other right. Many personal "troubles" would vanish if the troubled person would take a sheet of paper, write down "Why I SHOULD worry," then put as many (numbered) favorable answers as possible, then write down "Why I should NOT worry," and write as many answers as possible. How troubles fade when such a program is followed! When the froth is taken out of two opposing viewpoints, not much difference is left.

BEING AN EDITOR—Ever try to please everybody? And did you ever succeed? Probably the worst offenders are editors. But they can't help it, really. Because you know what an editor is, don't you? He's just a bit of underpinning plus a ball of something on top supposed to have something more than sawdust. He has to decide between two things. Which-ever way he decides, some one will think he was wrong. And, actually, from the offended person's viewpoint, the editor was wrong. Because one person likes one thing better than another—and that one MUST be right. The other likes something different, and, of course, that one is right. So, editors simply plug along and stay in the middle. But it's fun, really, because all these persons are fine, whether they agree or disagree.

A BADLY ARRANGED LAW—Laws for the protection of children are proper. There are too many mean-souled persons who would take advantage of youth with low wages, long hours, displacing men with families to support. However, while retaining proper restrictions, some leniency SHOULD be shown for youngsters who want to work Saturdays and in vacation time. As it is, boys and girls under 16 often find so little to do, it is not surprising that simple mischief develops into criminal tendencies. Lawyers could do something while for the ambitious youth (and others) while continuing protection. It's better for the youngsters to work than to loaf themselves into trouble.

IS THERE NO END?—Is there no end to calamities? In the flash of an eye hundreds go to their death, thousands are injured. Makes one think of insects on windshields in night driving. Also makes us realize that nature differentiates not at all between human life and insect life. There's nothing we can do about it—except to pour out, without restraint, to help the unhappy victims of nature's laws. Some day a slip of a planet out in space can blot all of us out as quickly as death overtook the hundreds in Texas City.

ELEPHANT'S FOOT—Under an elephant's foot hundreds of ants may have lives snuffed out, instantly. The ants may see a great shadow coming over the horizon of their limited "world" and then—the end. We see greater distances than ants can see. But in the eternity of space we are as restricted as the ants. A big "foot"—and we are gone. The best we can do is to do the best we can and not worry about blotting-out time.

SPEED—We are in too much of a hurry. We permit the advance of science making speed possible to step us up to a nerve-wracking belief that we should "nervous" our way through life. That's bad for everybody. About 120 years ago church officials in an Ohio community were asked for permission to use the church for a debate on the "newfangled" railroad. "No!" thundered the church board. "It is not in keeping with God's plan that man should go hurtling through space at the terrific speed of FIFTEEN miles an hour." Science must go on. We should follow the casual attitude of the scientists, while making use of their revelations, and learn full control of our emotions, of our tempers, not going too slow and not trying to keep up with the sun. We'll all be happier.

SPRINGTIME—These endearing souls known as artists should be happy in spring. Is not springtime the beginning of newness, the coming of the blooms, the season when drabness gives way to warmth and beauty? And it's a time when one can look ahead to the beauty of roses telling the story of the glory part of nature—when glory dresses the earth to match the beauty and loveliness of world's choicest—good women, innocent babies. Fall and winter kill. Spring brings new life.

Immanuel church is not far from its own 100th anniversary, the pastor, the Rev. A. W. Gode, said the other day, since it was founded 97 years ago. The Lutheran Missouri synod was organized in Chicago April 23, 1847, with 16 congregations having total memberships of less than 4,000 as charter members.

Mokena Cancer Fund
Drive Leader Named

Mokena Mayor Everett Cooper has been named chairman of the Mokena section of the Will county drive for funds to combat cancer in the county. The date of the drive will be April 28 to May 3.

"There will be no house-to-house solicitation in Mokena," the mayor said, "but business places will have containers for deposit of donations. It is hoped the response will be generous."

With a Will county quota of $12,000, it was stated, it is hoped, if the quota is reached, to establish a cancer clinic in Joliet for the benefit of all of Will county. The program is in association with the American Cancer society for educational efforts.

Teacher Plans Party
To Aid Burned Child

Little Diane Brown, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown of Frankfort, is in Silver Cross hospital recovering from burns suffered in her home last January 30, during an electrical storm.

The burns covered her body, arms and face. Each week a specialist performs a skin grafting operation to aid healing of the burns.

Hearing of Diane's plight and knowing the anxiety of the Browns, who have four other children, Mrs. Cora Roads, of 335 Third avenue, Joliet, a rural school teacher, arranged a community party for 7:30 this Friday evening in the Cleveland district school No. 158 at the corner of Wolf road and Lincoln highway. This is Brown's school district.

All proceeds from the event will be sent to Diane. There will be cards, buncos and other games and an auction plus refreshments, Mrs. Roads said.

Daylight Savings

Daylight saving time returns to this section Sunday morning, as has been the custom over a period of years.

Village President George Sangmeister of Frankfort has made official announcement that Frankfort will go on summer time Sunday morning.

F. Carlton Cole, New Lenox president, announced that the village will set clocks ahead Sunday morning.

Tinley Park President Wesley Stemm said the village will go on the new time beginning Sunday.

Orland Park is scheduled to go on daylight saving time Sunday, but lack of telephone communication makes confirmation impossible.

Official announcement was made by Village President Everett Cooper that Mokena will join with others in daylight saving time beginning Sunday morning.

Oak Forest will go on daylight saving time along with its neighbors.

It is expected that all other communities in South Cook and in Will county also will join in the new time observance.

ORLAND HOME BUREAU

The April meeting of the Orland Home Bureau was held Friday evening April 18 in the home of Anna Graf. Ten members and one associate and five guests were present. Mrs. Dagmar Myrick joined our unit. We also had as guest Mrs. Edward Raloff, our county chairman from the Worth unit, Blue Island.

Mrs. Claradahl Upham, Cook county home adviser, reported on the Blue Cross hospitalization plan which will be open to Farm Bureau and Home Bureau members.

Our home adviser also presented the major lesson on landscaping and the minor lesson on how to give an effective lesson.

Mrs. Graf was in charge of recreation. Two games were played. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Donald Maue and Mrs. Dagmar Myrick.

Our chairman, Helen Lemke, had received 15 tickets to the radio program "Ladies Be Seated" for Monday April 21 and the following ladies attended: Anna Lemke, Helen Lemke, Florence Sayers, Katherine Ihlenfeld, Clara Homerdig, Mildred Anderson and her mother, Mrs. Dralle from Monee, Mrs. D. Myrick, Matilda Erickson, Frances Lozaw, Violet Lauffer, Frances Lauffer, Vivian Maue, and Emma Bernard. We also went to see Tommy Bartlett's show at 3 o'clock.

Our next meeting will be held in the home of Clara Homerdig May 16. Local leaders will be Olive Emmerson and Clara Homerdig; hostesses will be Clara Homerdig and Katherine Ihlenfeld.

(An Editorial)

The country is being flooded with appeals from organizations whose attitude seems to be that our country should be the world's dumping ground, to urge United States senators and representatives to vote at once for measures permitting hundreds of thousands of European "displaced persons" to be brought to this country.

At a time when our people, millions of us, find housing scarce, these agitators ask that nearly half a million persons be added to our underhoused population.

The agitators do not say so, but it is a certainty that if H. R. 2910 should become law, these unwise persons would then ask for admission for other hundreds of thousands.

Many of these would not make good Americans, would become the pawn of scheming politicians in the large cities, would place a drain on our economic system, would be used to break down reasonable wages for working people.

H. R. 2190 should be decisively defeated. We may be sorry for the victims of the war, but unless we are willing to commit economic suicide, we must insist that the bill be killed. Tell your United States senators and representatives to kill it.

LINCOLN ESTATES PARTY

Rainbow troop Boy Scouts of Joliet will furnish a speaker on scouting at Ann Rutledge school at 8 o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) evening preceding a P.T.A. card and bunco party. The Lincoln Estates troop was organized last week. Robert Loyd is scoutmaster. The card and bunco party will follow immediately after the Scout talk.

A war-born idea is maturing into funds for refreshments at the next meeting of Frankfort's Bobzin-Swinford American Legion post.

It started in the war days when Mrs. Ida Priami placed a milk bottle on the counter of her ice cream parlor, the idea being that the funds would serve for giving a party for Frankfort service men when they returned home from service.

As everyone knows, the return from service was not en masse, and, as a result, the bottle of coins remained in the show case through the past year, and there was no service men's party. Mrs. Priami wondered what to do with the money.

She reached a decision. With a Legion post in the community, that would be a logical place for the money to be used for a party. But every service man is not a legionnaire, and she thought every one who served in the war should participate.

However, that turned out to be no problem. Bobzin-Swinford people fixed that. Result is, the post will hold a social meeting at 8 o'clock Monday evening, April 28, when the money will be converted into refreshments for all service people—and, it has been emphasized, it is not necessary to be a legionnaire to attend.

On the contrary, it has been announced that all veterans are urged to attend, since the money collected by Mrs. Priami was for all veterans. Legion officials hope that all who served in the war will join in participating in refreshments grown from a milk bottle placed on a counter while the fellows and girls were away fighting.

The place for the party: Frankfort village hall.

Dr. Agate Takes Up
Will Health Job May 1

Dr. George H. Agate, now director of maternal and child hygiene for the Peoria city health department, will assume his duties as health officer of the Will county health department May 1, according to Department President Raymond Powell.

Dr. Agate graduated from the University of Illinois medical school in 1935. He served his internship at Lucas county hospital, Toledo, Ohio, and residencies in pediatrics at the Children's Memorial hospital in Chicago and the Milwaukee Children's hospital. He also served residency with the Municipal Contagious hospital in Chicago.

In 1941, Dr. Agate received his master of science degree in public health from the school of public health, University of Michigan.

For five years Dr. Agate was with the U. S. Army Medical Corps as chief of communicable disease division in general hospitals both in the United States and the European theater of operations.

Mokena Cleanup Held Up By Heavy Rain

Mokena spring cleanup, scheduled for last Saturday, was delayed when a heavy downpour made it impossible to dispose of collected garbage and rubbish, Harold Miller announced.

Mr. Miller hopes that weather conditions will permit finishing the work this week, and it is desirable that refuse be made available for the cleanup evenings or, at the latest, early Saturday morning of this week.

Scout Honor Court
At Mokena On 28th

Mokena Boy Scouts, Troop 40, will hold court at 8 o'clock Monday evening, April 28, in Mokena school gymnasium.

Principal feature of the court of honor, a colorful and interesting event to scouts and to parents of scouts, and others, is investiture and advancement in rank program.

There will be investiture of tenderfoot scout, advancement from tenderfoot to second class, and the presentation of merit badges.

Entertainment scheduled includes moving pictures. Light refreshments will be served.

Parents are urged to be present at the court of honor, as well as friends and boys not now in scouting.

Famed Azalea Gardens Recall Beauty and Quiet of Old South

WNU Features.

NORFOLK, VA.—It's spring again and Norfolk's azalea gardens are in bloom.

Eighty acres of floral and woodland beauty bid the visitor to old Virginia welcome to a beauty spot which many lovers of nature claim is unrivaled anywhere.

Within a few minutes' drive of the business section of Virginia's bustling seaport city and actually within sound of giant airliners taking off from Norfolk's airport, the azalea gardens are a step to yesterday—to the beauty and quiet of the Old South where nature stages a pageant that man can only admire but cannot hope to reproduce.

More than 50,000 azalea bushes, planted so as to give continuous blooming from about April 1 to about June 1, are the principal attraction at the gardens but they are only a part of the beauties there. Tall trees and quiet lakes and flowers other than azaleas combine to form a silent symphony of nature at her best. Song birds in profusion add their voices to the scene.

The azalea gardens, a part of Norfolk's park system, are located along the shores of Norfolk's lakes which form a perfect water mirror for the flowers. The area has been landscaped with paths and foot bridges to make all sections of the gardens available to visitors.

The gardens began their spring blooms in March when camellias, Japanese quince and forsythia preceded an avalanche of naturalized daffodils and bluebells.

In April five varieties of Indian azaleas and six varieties of Kurume azaleas bloom under a canopy of native dogwood, redbuds, shadbush and other plants.

Riot of Color.

May sees azaleas macrantha and hexe at their best with accompanying plants being mountain laurel, columbines and Louisiana wild iris.

In June the flowers grow near the water's edge. The colors of the rhododendron catawbiensis and the flame azalea compete with those of the Japanese iris close by the shores.

Wild flowers bloom in profusion in July. Included in the wild flowers in the azalea gardens are the beautiful cardinal flowers which present a contrast to the rhododendron maximum.

Lovers of the crape myrtle, which is Norfolk's adopted flower, will find that plant at its best in August when its blooms appear in bold masses in many parts of the gardens.

In the fall, thousands of berry shrubs, including four varieties of hollies, nandinas and pyracantha, supplement the autumnal tints of the woodland.

The gardens as they exist today are a result of the dreams of Frederic Huette, director of the Norfolk bureau of parks and forestry, and Thomas P. Thompson, former city manager.

Admission to the gardens is free, and when the azaleas are at their best as many as 13,000 persons have visited them in one day.

Army Bows Out.

The azalea gardens have been recognized by the army as having priority over the pressing needs of war emergency. In 1942 the army staked out a construction project in the area and planned a series of buildings which would encroach on the actual garden properties. City officials, garden clubs and other organizations rallied to the defense of the gardens and the army, despite the pressure of war in 1942, changed its plans and erected its buildings elsewhere.

At that time Huette voiced the feelings of nature lovers the world over when he said:

"Not all the government's billions can replace a 50-year-old oak, a 25-year-old pine or a 20-year-old gum."

The azalea gardens are but a small part of the attractions of the Norfolk area for the tourist. The lakes on which they are located are a veritable fisherman's paradise and while fishing is not permitted in the gardens themselves, it is permitted close by.

Numerous Attractions.

Within 20 minutes' driving time are Virginia Beach in one direction and Ocean View in the other. In the general Tidewater area are such points of interest as the Williamsburg-Jamestown-Yorktown historical section, naval establishments at Norfolk and Portsmouth, the waters of Hampton Roads and the scenic grandeur of the Great Dismal Swamp. Not far away also are the rugged Outer Banks of the North Carolina coast.

As another lure to visitors, Norfolk points to its food, which is universally acclaimed as a delight to the visitor and homefolk alike, whether it be saltwater delicacies from the deep or the famed Smithfield ham and Virginia fried chicken, ably supported by candied yams, black-eyed peas, turnip greens and peanut soup.

Firemen Get Lost, Miss Two Blazes

FRANKLIN, IND.—Chalk up a double error for the Franklin fire department after firemen lost their way to one fire and completely missed another. Summoned to the rural J. B. Hicks residence, firemen took the wrong road. When they finally arrived at the Hicks home, neighbors had extinguished the blaze. Meanwhile, a dairy barn in town was gutted by flames.

JUST how important is rhythm and timing in sport? A short while back, my friend and critic, former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, suggested this subject as a timely theme.

It was the governor's idea that rhythm is an important factor, not only in sport, but also in every detail of life. The testimony seems to bear this opinion out completely.

We first put the matter up to Eddie Dyer, the Cardinal manager, also a former football star.

"Rhythm," Dyer said, "is hard to explain. But it is certainly important. Important in football—just as important in baseball. I would say that it meant the team play between mind and muscle, as far as sport goes. You must think and act in one direction. You can't think one way and act another."

"Certainly, such ball players as Musial, Marion, Moore and Slaughter all have rhythm. They have almost a perfect blend of brain and action—what you might call the split-second variety. There is never any sign of being jerky or jumpy in what they do."

"I would say the first move must come from a clear, untangled, smooth-thinking brain. Then the muscular side must take over at once."

To round out the advice, I switched the debate to my friend Frank Crowninshield, a patron of all the arts and of most sports, one of the most direct thinkers I have ever known. Crowninshield is better known as an editor, writer, critic and collector of art. But for over 50 years, he also has been one of the keenest of all sporting fans and followers. Everything that happens in the world is his stage.

Rhythm in Everything

"Have you ever thought," he writes me, "that the two prime essentials in sport are rhythm and timing? And they belong together. But they are just as dominant in the arts, poetry, dancing, music, architecture, painting, acting and singing."

"Absence of rhythm and timing," he writes, "is just as fatal in all the arts as it is in baseball, shooting, bowling, fishing, running and all the others. Did you ever watch Bobby Jones? Did you ever watch a bird dog in the field? Did you ever read Shelley's 'Ode to the West Wind,' or Keat's 'Ode to a Nightingale?' They all have the same basic qualities—perfect rhythm. Nothing hurried, nothing rushed."

We passed the problem on to P. Hal Syms, card and sport expert. "Rhythm," he told me, "is the basis of any golf stroke. It is also the basis of winning bridge. It is the foundation of everything you do well in; in sport, business, art or cards."

"What is rhythm? It must begin, of course, in the brain. You must set your plans in advance. You must be ready for whatever happens. There should be no room left in the brain for panic or hurry, for overconfidence or despair."

"Every part of life is competition—competition against yourself and your opponent. But you must be set and ready for whatever happens. You must never be caught off guard. Again, I say, this belongs to the brain."

"It is from the brain or the mind that rhythm starts. If you are prepared here, you are then able to send your message from the brain to your nerves and your muscles. When they respond, as they should if you are in good physical condition, you have what I call rhythm. I still say this applies to golf, baseball or football, just as it does to bridge."

Bridge and Boxing

"I have had nights at bridge where I saw that I was running on a low rhythmic scale. I knew my coordination was poor. On such nights, I cut out of the game as quickly as I could to wait for another night."

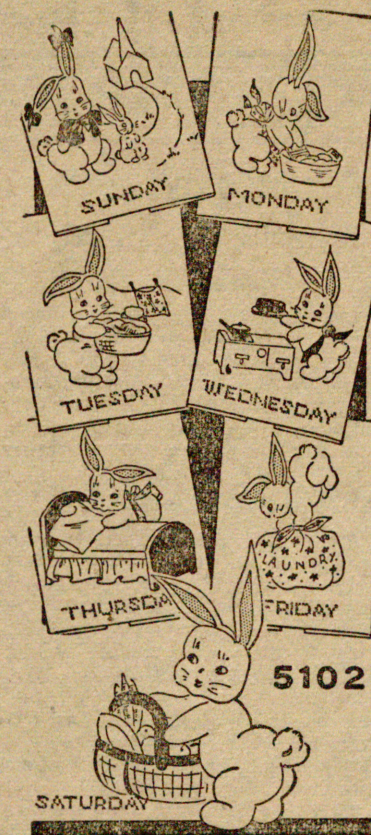

"I put the same problem up to Jack Dempsey. 'I see what you mean,' Dempsey said. 'But I can't explain it. We call it reflexes. When you are young, you see an opening and you let fly. Split second. When you are older, you see the same opening but you get there too late. When I was around 24 years old, my mind and fists worked together. They were a team, I guess. Maybe that's what rhythm is. Maybe you might call it smooth action between the mind and the fists—or whatever you use in certain games.'"

I can't think of a better description of rhythm. Any poet must have rhythm in his brain and soul. But poets don't have to blend this factor with physical action. There can be no set definition of rhythm as applied to sport, art, business, music, poetry or anything else.

In my opinion, rhythm means smoothness of action, the team play, the coordination of mind and muscle, where the directing force is mind or brain.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Clean up suede hats, bags, etc., before putting them away. Remove grease stains by sponging with a cloth dipped in vinegar. When dry, restore nap by brushing with a stiff-bristled brush.

Clothes closet shelves look very smart when painted one color with a line of enamel in a contrasting color run along the edge. For example, a gray shelf with a fuchsia color edge.

To glue in the proper manner, wood surfaces must be completely dry, free of moisture, oil, or paint.

Place a shoe-box cover in the bottom of your paper or corded shopping bag. This gives a solid foundation to stand on counter or floor and prevents liquids from trickling out of tipping containers.

Umbrellas folded up when damp are likely to mildew. The next time you come in out of the rain, leave your umbrella open while it dries. Then put it away in a cool, dry place. It will last longer, and not leak through when you need it.

FALSE TEETH

To hold your loose uppers and lowers comfortably secure all day—and every day, try dentist's amazing discovery called STAZE. Not a "messy" powder! STAZE is pleasant-to-use paste. Get 35c tube at drugist today! Accept no substitute!

STAZE Holds All Day or Your Money Back!

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roberts entertained last Sunday in honor of their son, Johnny, on his third birthday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Roberts and son Jack of Watseka, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Flanders and daughters Deborah and Suzanne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Helmke are the parents of a son born April 18 in the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet. Mrs. Helmke is the former Alice Schilling.

The Fred Willman Jr. baby was baptized last Sunday in the Visitation church, Chicago. Sponsors were Miss Betty Rosenorn of Chicago and Mr. Jack McCarthy of Tinley. The baby has been named Dale Michael. The Fred Willman Sr's. and Jack McCarthy's attended the christening.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Roberts of Watseka, were weekend guests of their son and family, the Bob Roberts.

Karen Joy, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Kott was baptized last Sunday morning during the church services in the Methodist church. The sponsors were Mr. John Kott, Mr. Tom Keisel and Miss Beverly Berg. After the services Mr. and Mrs. Kott entertained at a dinner in their home in Blue Island. Mrs. Kott is the former Joy Berg of Tinley.

It's another girl in the Howard Blume home, born last Saturday in the Englewood hospital, Chicago. The baby weighed 7 pounds 14 ounces and has been named Joan Laverne. Mrs. Blume is the former Miss Sylvia Yunker.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keuch entertained at a birthday party Friday evening honoring their daughter Jean on her golden birthday. Guests were from Blue Island, Frankfort, Chicago and Tinley Park. The evening was spent socially and Jean received many lovely gifts and cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Proctor and family of Shorewood, Wis., visited her parents, the John C. Funks, last weekend.

Mr. George Denner, 45, and Betty Willard, 32, both of Tinley Park, were married April 19 in Oak Forest by Justice of the Peace Stremblin. Miss Wilma Denner, daughter and Mr. Arthur Kunkel were attendants.

Following the marriage a dinner party was enjoyed.

After this week Mr. and Mrs. Denner will live in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stege and family, Mr. and Mrs. Al Urbach, Rev. F. Treskow, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Grunst, Jr., and Nathaniel attended a play given by the Concordia High school Thespians in River Forest last Sunday evening.

The Bert Fulton family visited the Hickerson family in Chicago last Sunday.

After the meeting of the Woman's Benefit Association last week Wednesday evening, a surprise stork shower was given for Mrs. Ruth Bacon, who is treasurer of the organization. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Florence Norris. The table decorations were pink and blue, and the centerpiece was a miniature cradle of crepe paper. Mrs. Bacon received many lovely gifts. Mrs. Dora Olson, who has been ill for several months, was well enough to attend the meeting and shower.

The newly married Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bettenhausen attended the Dinner Bell program on WLS last Monday noon, and were interviewed by Mr. Arthur Page. Mrs. Bettenhausen also had the honor of ringing the dinner bell. Accompanying the couple were their mothers, Mrs. George Kohlman and Mrs. Emil Bettenhausen who were also interviewed by Mr. Page.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cross of Springfield, Mo., formerly of Tinley Park, flew into Chicago Monday and are spending a few days in Tinley Park.

The Thornton High school May Festival will be held in the Thornton high school auditorium in Harvey, May 2 at 8:45 p. m. Gertrude Lucius will play a piano solo in the program, and will also accompany the high school orchestra.

A large crowd attended the Fireman dance given in the local gym, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beck and daughter

Carole of Chicago spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schorpe have returned from Florida where they spent the past six months with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wirth. They, with Mr. and Mrs. Gus Osmus were guests Sunday of Mrs. Alfred Bethell.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Anderson and Dale visited in Lockport Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ruettiger and family.

Don't forget the spring dance to be held May 3rd, in the local school gym given by the Grace Episcopal church. Dancing will be from 9 until 12. There will be refreshments and a floor show.

The second meeting of the Busy Hour club was held Wednesday evening April 9 in the home of Mrs. Phillip Trieme, leader. At this meeting the Home Advisor, Mrs. Castle gave an interesting talk. The annual election of officers was held as follows: president, Marlon Woodcock; vice president, Phyllis Trieme; secretary and treasurer, Marilyn Schoop; reporter, Marie Barthelme; recreation chairman, Lucille Morrill; program chairman, Margaret Richards. The next meeting will be held in the home of Marion Woodcock Friday evening May 2.

The New Lenox Bluebird 4-H club met Monday after school. Demonstrations were given on how to make cookies, by Shirley Allen who also served them. There are separate meetings on "Clothing" and "Outdoor Cooking". May 5 is the date set for a meeting with all the members. The outdoor meeting will be held Saturday in the camp grounds, while the clothing group will meet Monday at the school. Mary Jean Hunt displayed several articles of clothing which she made. Karen Halgren displayed a game she made. Sue Davenport displayed a bib, and Barbara Schaeffer, clothing and a doll.

MARLEY

By MRS. LOREN SASS

"Rural Sociology" was the subject chosen by D. E. Lindstrom of the University of Illinois when he spoke at the Marley Farm Life banquet on Thursday night. Owen Maue acted as toastmaster and introduced Wayne Churchill, farm advisor, Elmer Rowley, agriculture teacher at the Joliet township high school, and the Rev. Paul Saunders. All spoke briefly. Loren Sass led the group in singing and Mrs. Edward Sproat furnished the piano accompaniment. An election of advisory council members was held. Mr. Russel Lauffer was appointed president of the council for the coming year.

Sponsored by the Marley church and the vocational agriculture department of the Joliet high school, the farm life program has been in session during the past three months. Classes were held every Thursday night except during holy week.

Various subjects were used for the men's and women's classes. A photography class for teen agers met in the parsonage under the direction of Mr. Saunders. Homer Sabin instructed

WHY AUTO PREMIUMS ARE MORE

Here's why an increase in automobile insurance rates is necessary.

1. Bodily injury claim costs have risen as a result of a 30% increase in automobile accident deaths, rural accidents showing a 48% increase. Bodily injury claims are averaging 40% more than in 1941 because of loss of high wages and accelerated medical and hospitalization costs.

2. Property damages and collision claims are likewise mounting. Repair costs are up at least 35%, closely following the upward trend in general living costs. Wages of mechanics are high and repair parts are still scarce and costly.

3. Although 15 million of the 27 million cars on the road should be replaced with new autos, the 1946 output of new cars totals only about

2,200,000 with 5,000,000 expected in 1947. However, new cars are costing from 30 to 50% more than in 1941 so that many older cars will continue on the road, creating a serious hazard.

4. As evidence that old cars are not standing up, the American Automobile Association reports 17% more breakdowns.

5. The 18.7% increase in automobile thefts in 1945 was followed by a 15.5% additional increase in 1946.

6. With highways and streets in poor condition and with drivers operating older cars at faster speeds there is no immediate relief in sight, although insurance safety organizations are doing their utmost to check the rising accident trend.

Drive Carefully, Carry Insurance, Better be safe than sorry. Be careful where ever you see children and old people. Drive Slowly.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"As Homelike As a Barn"

Cy Hartman finally got his new barn painted, but plenty of folks had a hand in it. Whenever someone got a free day, or a little extra time, they'd come over and help out with paint and brush.

And Cy, to show his appreciation, held a big "barn warming" Saturday—for all the folks who'd helped him (but not barring those who couldn't). Ma Hartman supplied sandwiches, and Cy rolled out a mellow keg of beer.

You'd never think of a barn as "homelike." But with those lanterns hanging from the rafters; make-shift tables spread heavy with food; and Ed Carey's fiddle playing while the folks enjoyed their beer—Cy's barn was sure a mighty hospitable-looking place!

From where I sit, it's just about as appropriate to have a barn warming as a housewarming... if only because it's another chance to get neighbors together in a spirit of good fellowship.

NEW LENOXBy DOLORES ANDERSON
Tel. 3651CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the people of New Lenox for the confidence shown in me by electing me Police Magistrate.

I will do everything possible to help keep New Lenox a clean, safe place in which to make our homes.

MEL WHITAKER.

Saturday night the Friendly Circle group of the Methodist church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

The New Lenox Garden club April meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. Glenn Donaldson. Mrs. Walter Houchin was cohostess. Dessert-coffee was served at 1:30. A large birthday cake decorated in yellow and white and topped with seven candles, commemorating the seventh anniversary of the club, decorated one end of the table. A beautiful bouquet of yellow daffodils centered the pretty lace-covered table, with yellow candles on either side. Other decorations were yellow and white. Fifteen members and two guests were present. Plans were made to take another trip to the Morton Arboretum this year. Several local trips, including a day to be spent in the camp grounds, were planned. After routine reports, Mrs. Laura Morris gave an interesting talk on Wild Flowers in your Garden. Mrs. George Arbeiter of Joliet will be the guest speaker at the May meeting, May 1, in the home of Mrs. Fred Scheel, with Mrs. Robert Regan as cohostess. "Painting the Spring Picture" will be Mrs. Arbeiter's topic.

The New Lenox Parent-Teachers Association in cooperation with the Will county department of health has secured Dr. Holt's services for the physical examinations and Dr. Miller's services for the dental examinations, to be held April 30, at 1 o'clock at the school. The cost of Dr. Holt's examination will be one dollar, and the dental examination will be fifty cents. The New Lenox school is inviting schools in the surrounding area to take advantage of this opportunity at the same time.

The baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCollum was christened Sandra Leona, at 1:30 o'clock in St. Jude's Catholic church Sunday with the Rev. Father Reynolds officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. James King of Jacksonville, Fla., are spending six weeks here visiting the Joseph Wrights.

Mr. and Mrs. James Batson of Joliet are the parents of a son, Jay Darwin, born April 3. Mr. Batson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Batson, is a former New Lenox resident.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks and son have moved into their newly purchased home on Ash street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Strasberg and son have returned to their home at LaFayette, Ind., where Mr. Strasberg attends Purdue University, after spending ten days' spring vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Strasberg and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and children have moved into their newly purchased home, formerly the Robert Reiter place in Brookwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lubway of Franklin Park have moved into their newly purchased home, formerly the Earl Snyder place.

A meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Washburn on Tuesday night to make final plans for the May dance to be given May 3 by the Episcopal church.

The Woman's club of New Lenox met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lucille Drake. Dessert-coffee was served at 1:30, after which the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Laura Morris, club president. Election of officers resulted in the reelection of all officers: Mrs. Laura Morris president, Mrs. Ruby Gougar vice president, Mrs. Flossie Corp treasurer, and Mrs. Lucille Drake secretary. Ten reservations were made for the spring meeting of the county club league to be held in Manhattan April 29. Mrs. Duerr, program chairman, presented the following program: Group singing by the club; Easter poems and an article "I Am the Resurrection" were given by Mrs. Duerr; "Sunrise Service in Nature's Cathedral" was read by Mrs. Corp; Arbor Day facts were given by Miss Bess Jones; Mrs. Laura Morris discussed the "Wonder World of Birds." Roll call was answered by "believe it or not items." A guessing game about names of birds, famous people, and dogs was enjoyed, with prizes going to Mrs. Mary Morris, Mrs. Lucille Drake, and Mrs. Ruby Gougar. Mrs. Josephine Sayers will be hostess in her home for the May meeting.

The Young Women's group of the WSCS met at 7:30 Tuesday night at the parsonage. Mrs. Charles Werner and Mrs. Steve McGovney were hostesses.

The district meeting of the WSCS will be held Friday at the Lockport church. A missionary from India will be the speaker. An award will be given for the largest group attending.

The Sunday school board of the Methodist church will meet in the church at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. All members are asked to please be present.

Notice to Orland Park Woman's Club Members

Spring is here and once more we look forward to our annual luncheon. A very special treat, the luncheon will be held at the Old Spinning Wheel on Wednesday, May 21 at 1:30 p. m. Reservations must be made with Mrs. Franklin Loebe, chairman of the luncheon committee, no later than May 7. Members are invited to bring guests, (R. S. V. P.). The ladies will meet at the library no later than 12:15.

Will look forward to a grand turnout to welcome our new officers, Mrs. Wesley Lindquist, president; Mrs. Harry Pihl, 2nd vice president; Mrs. John Loebe, corresponding secretary; also Mrs. Roy Loebe, recording secretary, who was elected to fill the vacancy left when Mrs. Phillip Eierdam resigned. An interesting program has been arranged.

The regular meeting and annual potluck luncheon of the Orland Park Woman's club was held Wednesday April 16 at the home of Mrs. Harry Anderson on 108th avenue. Mrs. John Loebe, Mrs. Roy Loebe, and Mrs. Orville Schmaedeke were hostess committee for the luncheon. Plans for the spring luncheon were made as also was election of officers.

In spite of the heavy downpour of rain Saturday night, more than 200 persons attended the "Vampire Bat" produced by the junior high school students of Orland Community high school. Before and between the acts, the orchestra played selections and Donna Cowan played a piano selection. After the last act, members of the cast and the director Mrs. Mary Townsend, appeared on the stage and, on behalf of the cast, Louis McKittrick presented Mrs. Townsend with a floral bouquet.

CARE AT CALVING TIME PAYS CATTLE RAISERS BIG DIVIDENDS

A whole year's profit on a cow may hinge on the care given that cow at calving time.

Livestock health authorities point out that a cow which calves normally and without trouble will be ready to begin a year of profitable production and will present a well-developed, healthy calf as an extra dividend. On the other hand, a cow neglected at calving time may give birth to a dead calf or suffer injuries that will result in decreased production during the lactation period.

The precautions are simple ones requiring little time and costing practically nothing extra, but they pay well.

One of the most necessary things at this time is to have the cow near the farm buildings, so that she can be watched constantly for signs of difficult parturition. It is highly important that delivery be prompt once labor begins.

Another item of care is the feeding of a laxative ration, preferably one rich in bran, molasses or oil meal.

If the weather is unfavorable for calving out of doors or if a suitable plot cannot be provided near the buildings, special care should be taken to provide comfortable quarters inside the barn. Dryness, cleanliness, good bedding, and good lighting are required, and an extra forkful of straw insures protection while the cow is uneasy. Adequate amounts of clean, fresh water should be readily available.

5th and 6th Grades

The following have completed their reading circle work during the last quarter: Dolores Cooper, Mary Anna Rinke, Florence Burgeson and Barbara Geuther.

The science classes have found it interesting to watch the buds open on the pussy willow branches which Bruce Shoop brought to school.

Much interest is being shown in our new aquarium.

Dolores Cooper gave a reading for our opening exercises recently.

We have purchased another picture for our room with the money given us by the P.T.A. It is called, "Saved".

Thank you, P.T.A. members! The fifth graders look forward to viewing their art work on the scroll each week. This week a scroll was prepared for science and Barbara Geuther acted as narrator.

Marilyn was happy girl when she received a package thru mail last week. She sent a question to the "Quiz Dawn" program and because the question was used on their program, she was the winner of a beautiful Ever-sharp pencil.

THE CIRCUS HAS COME TO TOWN . . . All over America children from 1 year old to 98 years old are getting ready to welcome the circus to their own backyards. Scenes like the above will be duplicated all over America when Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus tours the country, after completing an extensive run in Madison Square Garden, N. Y. The clown is Harry Dann, featured funster among the 100 funny fellows with the circus. It will be the most extensive tour of the circus since before the war.

FLOODS SWEEP NATION . . . Typical of worst floods in history is the Lansing, Mich., flood which recently hit the state capital of Michigan. Flood conditions were serious in many parts of the nation and resulted in millions of dollars in property loss. Many farming regions were damaged. Crop loss as well as loss to farm buildings, equipment and livestock was extremely heavy in several states.

'DRAFT TRUMAN' MEETINGS

WASHINGTON. — While Republicans were literally pounding on the outer gates during the Lillenthal debate, Democratic national committeemen from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia were enjoying a unique session with Harry Truman within the White House.

Spoke up vivaciously Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic committeewoman from Pennsylvania:

"Mr. President, I have a request to make. I want a girl whom you know very well to open the '48 Democratic convention by singing 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'"

Truman grinned happily, but while Democratic leaders got no commitment regarding Margaret Truman and "The Star-Spangled Banner," they did come away from the meeting more confident of their political future than at any time since Franklin Roosevelt died two years ago.

The meeting had been arranged as first in a series in which party kingpins will come to Washington to discuss national affairs with the President and top cabinet officials. It also was designed to warm up Democrats for a "Draft Truman" drive.

ALIENS WITHIN THE GATES

Congress is preparing further crackdowns on alien agents, chiefly those who enter the United States under assumed names, such as Gerhardt Eisler, the alleged Soviet agent who changed his name 10 times while shuttling back and forth between the USA and USSR.

South Dakota's Rep. Karl Mundt of the house un-American activities committee is introducing a bill whereby aliens who obtain passports and visas be fingerprinted. The fingerprints would be filed with the FBI, and all visiting aliens would be required to carry identification cards.

The house un-American committee also will consider behind closed doors another measure requiring members of the Communist party to register as agents of any foreign government.

MOSCOW DIARY

Jottings from a Moscow diplomatic diary: "We have to be careful lest our confidential files be pilfered. Delegates living at the Hotel Moscow do not work there. They work at their embassies. No papers of any kind are left in their hotel rooms when they leave. . . . Spasso house, home of Ambassador Bedell Smith, has been turned into an office building. . . . American MPs guarding the embassy are very careful. A year ago when Jimmie Byrnes was here you could come and go at Spasso house every day. This time you show passes. . . . Even inside the embassy we talk behind our hands. It's to stop the sound-waves and double-cross the dictaphones. . . . They say that when Joe Davies was ambassador in Moscow he collected a bushel basket of dictaphones every morning. The servants had put them in overnight.

"Russia impresses one as a country united with a single will. . . . Unquestioning obedience to authority. Practically no black market. . . . Valuables (aside from diplomatic papers) are quite safe in my unlocked hotel room. . . . More industry and energy than intelligence. . . . The maid who putties the cracks in my window lest I freeze is a peasant content to putty cracks for the rest of her days.

"Here in the best of the Russian hotels, the mattress would be a disgrace to a second-class hotel in New York. The table lamp can be turned off only by pulling the plug from the wall. Toilet facilities remind one of a third-rate boarding house. . . . But the critic of these minutiae is likely to lose sight of the fact that Russia has been remade in the last generation, and that in the next generation she will be remade again. . . . Remember how Charles Dickens laughed at the crudities he found in the United States only a couple of generations ago."

PRAYING FOR SENATORS

Although few legislators seem to pay too much attention to it, each session of the house and the senate opens with a prayer. Recently the Rev. Peter Marshall, senate chaplain, delivered the following which seemed peculiarly appropriate:

"O Thou who has the words of eternal life, help us to cultivate proper speech," he began. "Surrounded as we are in this city with noble inscriptions of the plain, stirring words of wise men, may we say what we mean and mean what we say. And may it be worth saying.

"Teach us economy in speech that neither wounds nor offends, that affords light without generating heat. Bridle our tongues lest they stampele us into utterances of which, later, we shall be ashamed. This we ask in Jesus' name. Amen."

The lengthy debate which followed made it all too apparent that no one had listened.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Payment to Schools

With veteran enrollment in institutions of higher learning expected to reach a peak of 1,300,000 in the school year 1947-48, Veterans' administration has established a new procedure whereby VA may pay 75 per cent of estimated tuition fees, book and supply costs for veterans studying under the G.I. bill, in advance to well established and non-profit colleges and universities.

Actual expenses, less the advance payment, can be paid either at the end of the semester or at the end of the period for refunding money for those who have dropped out of school. Formerly no college could collect from veteran-students until the end of the refund period, usually six weeks or more after start of a semester, and this worked a hardship on many schools which customarily depended on tuition payments to meet current expenses of the semester.

Questions and Answers

Q. Will you please tell me when a boy drafted in the army June 7, 1946, will be eligible for a discharge? —Mrs. B. M., Prescott, Ark.

A. No, we can give you no definite date, but the army does not now hold draftees much longer than a year.

Q. If I were getting a $50 allotment would I be eligible to work and draw wages? If so, how much? —R. W., Mt. Angel, Ore.

A. If you are the wife or mother of a serviceman and drawing an allotment, yes, you would be eligible to work for any wages you could get.

Q. I am writing in regard to the G.I. loans for homes through the FSA. My husband is a veteran and we were trying to buy a farm through this loan. We had all the papers fixed up and signed, the option had been signed by us and the owner of the farm, we had a notice to go sign for the first loan check. Then the man at the FSA office told us the loan was not going through. The reason was the place lacked one acre of having the amount of cleared land required. We offered to clear this one acre and the owner said she would have it cleared, but they wouldn't hear to it. Now the place has been sold to another man and we think there was something crooked about all of it. So will you please tell us how we could go about seeing who turned the place down at so late a date and the real reason why they did so? —Mrs. T. E. L., Hickory Flat, Miss.

A. Farmers Home administration, which has succeeded Farm Security administration, suggests that you write all details direct to Thomas B. Fatherree, State Director of Farmers Home Administration, 1130 West Capitol Street, Jackson, Miss. In the meantime, the Washington office of FHA assures us they will immediately start their own investigation and will inform this office of the result, which we will be glad to forward to you.

Q. Could you please tell us how we can find out why we don't receive our son's mail? We know for sure that he writes us twice a week but we never receive his letters. His chaplain wrote to us and told us that he knows our son writes and he doesn't understand why we never get his mail. Two of our son's friends who are in the same regiment wrote to us and we get their letters in six or seven days. We have not received mail from our son in six weeks. Can you tell us why? He sends it air mail. We know he is in Korea and it worries us that we do not receive his mail. Some of it has been registered so we would be sure to get it, his chaplain said, but we have never received it. I hope you can tell us what to do. —Mrs. L. S. J. L., Clayton, Mo.

A. If you receive mail from your son's friends in the same regiment there is no reason why you do not receive your son's mail if he writes and addresses his letters correctly. The fact that you receive mail from your son's two friends indicates that the mail comes through OK. If your son receives your mail and you receive your son's friends mail there appears no reason why you should not receive his.

Q. When my husband was in service we had a son. He didn't know the government was supposed to pay for the doctor and so he paid it. We wondered if we could get the amount back. If so, who do we get in touch with? —Mrs. L. H., Pikeville, Tenn.

A. It is difficult to obtain reimbursement for such expenditures, but suggest that you ask your local Red Cross to help you, or inquire at the nearest army hospital. In case you have no luck, write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, War Department, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo.

How to Raise and Train Your Dog

Teaching Tricks

EVERYONE admires a well-trained pup. Don't postpone teaching your dog appealing tricks because you think a special knack or skill is required. All you need is patience and good humor.

Remember that dogs have varying degrees of intelligence; too, don't abuse your pup if he's slow to learn. Better not begin training before three months old. Then stick to three short training periods a day until each trick is mastered.

Our booklet No. 78 contains 20 illustrated lessons on teaching tricks and obedience. Also chapters on diet, grooming, house manners, illness. Send 25 cents (coin) for "How to Raise and Train Your Dog" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 11th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 78.

Cultured Pearls Identified Through Use of X-Ray

Only an X-ray can tell a cultured pearl from an oriental pearl. Oriental pearls develop naturally in oysters in Oriental waters. Cultured pearls are created by inserting a small mother of pearl bead in the oyster.

These pearls are developed in oyster beds near Japan and the South Sea islands. It requires two to seven years to make a pearl.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Julia McFarlane, whose husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, leaving her with two children, Ric and Jill, is startled when 25 years later, during the second war, he returns and tells her he is using the name of Captain Mackey. Ric marries Sandra Calvert, a divorcee whom Richard knew to be of bad reputation. Sandra tells Jill she wants $10,000. Captain Mackey arrives, telling Jill, who does not know who he is, that he is taking Sandra to Ric. Sandra suspects who he is but is afraid of him. Richard tells Jill to tell her mother her "last lover" came to call. Spang Gordon, whom Jill loves, is grounded near the farm and the couple is reunited.

CHAPTER XXI

"Dooley gets a daughter-in-law with no warning at all, and then loses her just as abruptly. We old people can't adjust ourselves to changes in a minute, Jill," Dave said.

"Could you stand the idea of getting a son-in-law in an awful hurry, Mrs. McFarlane?" Spang inquired, wistfully. "I've only got about fifteen hours—maybe not that long."

Jill caught her breath with a jerk and threw back her head.

"She can't get a son-in-law unless I get a husband," she said, coolly, "and certainly no one has ever mentioned marrying me!"

"Could we be permitted to retire to some private spot while I convince this woman that I love her, Mrs. McFarlane?"

Tears brimmed in Jill's eyes. "Oh, Spang—you mean—you do? You mean you do want me? You want to get married—now—to me?"

Spang took her elbow. "Come along in here, stupid woman, and I'll put it all into words of one syllable!"

"But how could I know if nobody tells me?" Jill demanded, furiously, as he steered her out. "I thought you never would—I practically hated you—Oh, Spang."

Dave got up and shut the door, then came back and flitted his pipe again.

"A young man has asked you for your daughter's hand in marriage, Dooley," Dave said presently, "or did you hear him?"

She turned then, and he saw the taut grayness begin to go out of her face, color was coming back into her lips, her eyes were not enormous and anguished any more.

"He tried to save Ric, Dave," she said, "and he didn't tell Jill who he was. And Sandra knew."

"Jill said that she made vague threats."

"This isn't the end, Dave. Sometimes I think there never will be an end. There can't be, while Richard is alive. But he did try to save his son. And he didn't hurt Jill."

"If Jill marries this young chap, Gordon, she'll have other things to think about. Even if the shock comes it won't stun her. You heard her defending Richard, though she had no idea he was anything but a casual stranger."

"Yes," said Julia, hoarsely, "but if the revelation does come will she defend me? Or will she be outraged because I've deceived her? And surely, Dave, they can't be thinking of being married—now? She knows this lieutenant so casually—she has seen him only three times."

"Now is all the time they have, Dooley, remember?"

She drew a long breath, and Dave saw the rigid lines in her face soften. She hung up the dish towel and dried her fingers.

Wedding Plans

For Jill

"Call them, Dave," she said. "If we're having a wedding at Buzzard's Hill we have to make plans."

"I'll have to be married in these greasy old pants," Spang Gordon sighed when they were in a huddle around the kitchen table again. "I didn't bring any clothes because we expected to be back at base this morning. And I can't appear out of uniform, even at my own wedding."

"I'll wear some overalls, Spang," Jill volunteered, blithely. She was sparkling all over now, her hair was as alive as something quickened by a galvanizing current, her eyes danced, even the gilt freckles on her nose twinkled. "And a bandana around my head, and the bride will carry a bouquet of pig's knuckles tied with spinach."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," declared Julia. "You'll have a bouquet, and Dave will ransack the army store in the morning to find some things for Spang to wear, and we'll even have a wedding-cake."

"There won't be any arch of swords," Spang reminded Jill. "You won't even have a wedding march. But you'll have me."

"Briefly," Jill's mouth quivered for an instant, then tightened again to the smile she had been keeping fast. She said, "I'll wear my faille and my little turban, and Grandfather will give me away, and Dooley will weep, knowing all the time that she'll get me back again in a couple of hours and have me on her hands for the duration. You'd better get a little sleep, Spang. I'd hate to have my bridegroom pass out on me between 'Dearly beloved' and 'do.'"

"You could use a few winks yourself. You want to be on the alert, you know, when I bestow all my worldly goods upon you. You want to be sure you aren't getting gypped."

Julia heard it all with a little inward pang. Richard should be here to give his daughter away! Richard had seen her now, he knew what he had thrown aside, what he had lost. Whatever he had done, however he had just led himself, Richard was having his reckoning now.

Jill did not see the paper next day.

There was too much excitement. Dave got on the telephone and wangled a forty-hour leave for Lieutenant Gordon from his commanding officer, and Julia came down from the attic, her arms full of tissue paper and wisps of stuff.

"I've planned since you were five months old to have you come down these stairs to be married, Jill," she said. "I've seen you, in my dream, reflected in the mirrors, with a veil drifting around your hair. I was married in a street dress, with a hobble skirt and a dreadful hat that dropped clear down over my ears, but my mother had elegance and orange blossoms. If this dress isn't too yellow and brittle—if you can squeeze into it—we can press it carefully, and it isn't too Victorian, not so terribly different from some of the Godeyish things they're wearing now."

"Oh Spang—you mean—you do?"

John I. Catches A Bouquet

"Satin," breathed Jill, fingering the heavy folds of the sweeping train. "I never dreamed you'd let me wear this, Dooley. And real lace on the veil! Let me try it on! Oh, I'm so glad we don't have to rush things so Spang can get away. I'll be really married! Look at all the million little hooks! They certainly had patience in those days! Dooley, with the sash let out a little, it will meet here at the belt!"

So Jill came down the McFarlane stairs in her grandmother's wedding gown, and Lieutenant Spencer Gordon, Army Air Corps, stood at the foot of the stairs waiting for his bride in a new pair of khaki trousers a trifle too long and a khaki skirt with sleeves a little too short, but there was worship in his face, and at the bottom Jill smiled at him dizzily.

There were the few hastily assembled guests and the old, old tune played by some volunteer on the piano. They ate ice-cream and Mamie's hastily baked wedding cake, the icing still slightly drippy, the drank toasts in John I.'s champagne, and then it was over and Jill was flying down the stairs again in her faille suit, her hat in her hand, and stopping to toss her bouquet over the rail.

John I. caught it and looked a little bewildered and embarrassed as Jill went into hysterics of laughter at him, so he poked it abruptly at the nearest woman and fled. Then Jill and Spang were rattling away in the old station-wagon, bound for the mountain inn only a few miles away where they would spend their brief and precious time together.

The last guest departed, Dave began putting chairs in their places and blowing out candles, John I. pulled off his necktie and hunted for his old pipe, and Julia went out on the porch and dropped into a chair, sighing with weariness and sliding her feet out of the tight, high pumps she had worn.

Richard Pays an Overdue Debt

John I. came out, dragged a match down the bricks of the wall, giving her a sidelong, guilty look when the match left a brown mark.

"Forgot the paper," he muttered when he had the pipe going. "Dang war might be over, and we wouldn't know it."

He trudged down the driveway, picked up the paper where the boy had thrown it, unrolled it, and walked back across the lawn, stumbling a little, reading the headlines. Julia saw him stop and study the paper for a minute or two and then come plunging on, walking headlong into a spirea bush, and she told herself that poor old John I. was breaking fast, that all the excitement of this past week had been too much for him.

She was lost in reverie when John I. struggled up to the porch, panting, and laid the paper in her lap. "There!" he gasped, pointing. "Look there!"

It was not a big headline. But it leaped from the paper and smote Julia McFarlane's consciousness like a blow.

ARMY OFFICER AND WOMAN LOSE LIVES WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO TENNESSEE RIVER

Old John I. dropped into a chair and was twisting his trembling hands together.

"Dooley, when he came here last night I shook his hand. I'm so glad now that I shook his hand!"

"I'm glad, too, John I.," Julia said, in a toneless voice.

She laid the paper down and walked out across the grass, under the high, ancient trees. She looked at the thin autumn sky and the leaves that were already beginning to turn a little.

"Good-by, Richard," she said softly. "Good-by, my last lover!"

South-West Africa

One-fifth larger than Texas, South-West Africa borders the Atlantic ocean for 1,000 miles south of Angola (Portuguese West Africa). Sparsely settled, it counts only one African native for each of its 318,000 square miles. Large reserves of land have been set aside for Hotentots, Hereros, Damaras, and other old tribal groups.

Business Baron

Gustav Franklin Swift, founder of Swift & Co., left school when he was 14 years old to work for his brother, a butcher, for $1 a week. At 16 he entered the business world with $20 borrowed capital. When he died at 63, Swift was head of the meat-packing firm which had a capitalization of $25,000,000.

Rural Delinquents

Contrary to the usual belief that the percentage of delinquency in rural America is less than in cities, it is actually higher. Possibly one of the reasons for people not being aware of this fact is that a large number of the cases never reach the courts.

Pressure Saucepans

Pressure saucepans cook meats and vegetables at a temperature several degrees higher than boiling, which saves time and fuel cost. Other advantages are conservation of colors and flavors, and since little water is used, vitamins and minerals are preserved.

Oldest Hospital in Americas

The Hospital of Jesus Nazareno in Mexico City, which Cortes founded in 1524, is the oldest in the Americas. It rises on the site of the meeting place between the Aztec emperor, Montezuma, and the man who was to bring about the downfall of one of the world's great civilizations.

Hot Soap Mild

A soap so mild it can be used in hospitals, kitchens, and even as a shampoo has been made from "liquid fire," the incendiary fuel used in flame throwers and bombs. It is just one of the wartime materials which the chemical corps of the army has found adaptable for civilian use.

High-Analysis Fertilizer

Ammonium phosphate, a combination of both nitrogen and phosphate, is a high-analysis fertilizer, containing 59 pounds of plant food per 100 pounds. It contains 11 parts of nitrogen and 48 parts of available phosphate—a fertilizer formula of 11-49-0.

Lac Secretes Resin

The lac insect which secretes the resin from which shellac is made lives on trees, but not necessarily on lac trees. The lac tree is the source of a white resinous sap used by the Chinese and Japanese in the manufacture of their original lacquer.

Frozen Peaches

Adding a small amount of vitamin C to peaches in the form of ascorbic acid powder, obtainable at most drug stores, will prevent the browning or discoloration often associated with frozen peaches. The powder is added to the syrup as the peaches are packaged for freezing.

Seasoning Herbs

An important trick with dried herbs is a hot and cold bath for even more subtle seasoning. Put the quantity to be used in a tea strainer, dip the strainer into piping hot water for 10 seconds, and right out into cold water for 10 seconds, and drain.

U. S. Illiterates

According to present estimates, there are 10,000,000 grown-ups in the U. S. whose knowledge of the three "R's" is so slight that they are badly handicapped as workers, as heads of families and as citizens. Of this total 3,000,000 are Negroes.

Keep Shoes Cool

Heat will rot rubber and weaken leather so don't store leather shoes or overshoes in a hot attic. Put them in a cool dry place, and clean them thoroughly. Mud left on shoes will make a permanent stain on the leather.

Town and City

In New England, the town was the corporate municipality; in New York it was the city into which urban places developed. The rest of the United States followed these two general nomenclatures.

MOTOR VEHICLE LICENSES

In the first quarter of 1947 the automobile department issued 1,590,440 motor vehicle licenses, a gain of 119,906 over the issuance for the same period last year, the secretary of state reported last week.

FARM ANIMALS SUSCEPTIBLE TO MANGANESE DEFICIENCY

With the possible exception of horses, all farm animals, including poultry, are susceptible to manganese deficiency.

If animals are thriftless, unproductive and in poor general health, manganese depletion should be suspected, especially if they are fed crops raised on sandy soils, on muck soils or on any soil that has been heavily limed. Forced breeding and feeding methods tend to hasten depletion, and animals growing rapidly require more than those growing at a slow rate.

When a deficiency of this so-called minor chemical or trace mineral is recognized, supplemental amounts may be added to the ration. Due care must be exercised in this connection, however, since certain forms of manganese tend to oxidize other ingredients added to grain mixtures, notably the fats and fish oils added as vitamin concentrates.

CATTLE THAT WON'T EAT GRASS

When Bossy refuses to eat grass, farmers in India think nothing of it.

A breed of cattle, maintained by a few individuals in the North Arcot and Salem districts of the Madras Province, ordinarily do not eat grass, but browse instead on the tender shoots and leaves of thuringi, an unarmed native tree known scientifically as Albizzia amara. Even young calves have to be fed on thuringi leaves because they do not care for grass, no matter how tender it may be.
